Civil Service

Last-Ditch Strike Talks Start Today

Both Sides Hurl Fighting Words

By PETER BRUTON

British Columbia surged relentlessly towards a crippling strike of its civil servants yesterday as a scheduled meeting later today emerged as the final hope of avoiding a tie-up of services in all areas of the province.

The ever-widening gulf between the cabinet and the civil servants was stretched still further yesterday as both sides heaped coals upon the fires of the dispute.

Executive of the B.C. Government Employees' Association will meet with cabinet at 4 p.m. today in a last-ditch attempt to settle the question of impartial bargaining rights for government employees.

"SCAB LABOR"

Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Provincial Secretary Wesley Black yesterday hit out at the civil servants' executive, said the workers had no right to strike and maintained that even if the strike does start at 7 a.m. Friday enough civil servants would cross the picket lines to keep all government services running.

Alfred Bennett, assistant general secretary of the BCGEA immediately countered by charging the government planned to hire "scab labor," that "the attorney-general was "out of touch with the situation," and that the public should demand that the government make plans to insure essential services such as jails, mental hospitals and other institutions be kept running.

A special strike issue of the association magazine "The Provincial" was issued, giving a breakdown of the entire situation, advising branches what to do in the event of a strike and details of how to organize picket lines.

MORE SUPPORT

Strike placards proclaiming: "B.C. Government Employees On Strike for Arbitration, Fair Wages, 40-hour Week and against Intimidation" were distributed for use by picketers on Friday.

The 100,000-strong B.C. Federation of Labor promised to raise strike funds from its members if asked and Canadian Labor Congress President Claude Jodoin, attending a conference of the International Federation of Free Trade Unionists in Tunis, North Africa, wired he would fly here to help if necessary.

BCGEA Assistant Secretary Alfred Bennett said the association had grown by more than 1,000 since June 1.

SPLINTER GROUP

On the other hand there were indications that professional workers in the government planned to break away from the 11,300-member body and form their own separate organizations. These include both professional foresters and engineers.

There were also reports that many government workers were still torn between the decision of walking out on strike Friday morning or crossing the picket lines.

The executive government has

Medical Help Offered

Provincial cabinet yesterday offered to pay half the net premiums paid by civil servants for medical coverage under their own medical services plan.

The move is likely to cause a still wider split in the ranks of civil servants who are still debating whether or not to go on strike Friday.

It is a known fact that many members of the 11,000-strong B.C. Government Employees' Association are only in the organization in order to have medical coverage.

ONE CATCH

Cabinet also proclaimed the Public Services Medical Plan, passed at the 1955 session of the legislature, which enables all employees in the government, crown-operated bodies such as the B.C. Power Commission, and members of the legislature to belong to a medical plan.

There was one apparent catch in the government's offer to pay 50 per cent of the premiums, the full amount of which is now paid by the individual civil servants.

The order reads: the government is prepared to pay the 50 per cent of the net premiums "providing that the present benefits under the plan are ex-

Now It's Official

Queen to Open Our Parliament

OTTAWA (CP)—The Queen will formally open the first session of Canada's new Parliament on Monday, Oct. 14, during a five-day visit to Ottawa. It will be the first visit to Canada of a reigning monarch since 1939.

The announcement from Prime Minister Diefenbaker's office Tuesday confirmed speculation that the opening of the Parliament elected June 10 would be timed to coincide with the royal visit.

ARRIVES OCT. 12

The Queen will arrive in the capital on the afternoon of Saturday, Oct. 12, and leave by air on Wednesday morning, Oct. 16, for a six-day visit to the United States.

The announcement said that in view of the shortness of the Canadian visit, Her Majesty will be unable to visit any place other than Ottawa.

The Queen will read the speech from the throne, written by the government, to open the session.

Mr. Diefenbaker's statement said:

"I am confident that all parties in Parliament will welcome this unique opportunity to have Her Majesty open our Parliament and greet us as we take up our duties there.

"It will be the first occasion in our history when the sovereign has personally presided over the opening of Parliament in Canada."

Cougar Traps Family

HOLBERG, B.C. (CP)—A mother and her two small daughters hid in a clothes closet for five hours recently while a starved cougar prowled a pen outside the home and finally killed a dog.

About 20 pets, mostly dogs, have been killed by cougars in the last six months at this northern Vancouver Island RCAF station.

Four cougars have been killed in the past four months.

Camp superintendent Dave McNeil said parents, fearful for the safety of their children, "have just about reached the end of their endurance."

Mr. McNeil said the lastest incident occurred last week.

The cougar prowled around the settlement for five hours before tearing boards from a pen and killing the chained dog inside.

The cougar was later shot.

Death Pits

Heat Kills 300

LONDON (UP) — The death toll from Europe's heat wave may reach 500 by the end of the week if the blistering temperatures continue, weather experts predicted last night.

At least 339 persons have died so far. Italy has been hit the worst, with 179 dead in less than four days.

The heat turned Milan's three homes for the aged into sweltering death pits, claiming 65 lives in less than 24 hours. Authorities ordered patients who could be moved to be taken to the mountains north of the city.

There was some hope of a fall in temperature with a cool air front coming from Northern Europe.

Israelis, Syrians Cool Guns

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—Israeli and Syrian forces agreed to a ceasefire Tuesday night after a day-long battle with mortars and machine-guns north of Lake Huleh on the Israeli-Syrian border.

At least one person was reported killed and 12 wounded on the Israeli side.

Fishermen Return Today

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's salmon fishermen, on strike since June 22, will return to work today.

U.S. Family Aboard

City-Bound Plane Lost; Search On

A search of Georgia Strait was launched by the U.S. Coast Guard last night for a light airplane, believed to be carrying a California couple and their child, which failed to show up on schedule at Patricia Bay airport.

If the missing aircraft does not show up by this morning, Vancouver RCAF search and rescue squadron will join the hunt with a Canso, and the Coast Guard will have five planes up.

Pilot of the plane, a man known only as Ligette, filed a flight plan at Boeing Field in Seattle, stating he planned to land at Orcas Island at 3.30 p.m., and an hour later at Patricia Bay. The plan left Orcas Island, but did not reach Patricia Bay.

Saanich police and RCMP checked without result four light aircraft landing strips in the Saanich and Central Saanich area, and the airports at Nanaimo and Qualicum, to see if the plane had made an emergency landing.

The Port Angeles Coast Guard started the search with an Albatross plane shortly after 6 p.m. and was joined by two light aircraft from Bellingham. The search was called off at dark.

SIGHTING REPORTS

Three reports by persons who sighted small planes over southern Vancouver Island were also being checked.

A resident of East River here reported a blue and white aircraft, the color of the missing plane, flew overhead during the afternoon, but the sighting time was considered too early.

A plane spotted over Cowichan Lake was reported to be buzzing low to attract attention, but then turned back toward Patricia Bay.

A motorist also reported a small aircraft flying low over the Malahat.

Boathouse operators were asked last night to tell fishermen to be on the lookout for the plane or wreckage today.

Police Hunt Mad Grizzlies

KEMANO, B.C. (CP)—Police led parties are conducting large-scale grizzly bear hunts following recent mauling incidents near this coast settlement. At least 13 grizzlies have been shot.

Empire Trio 'Thrown Out

LONDON (Reuters) — Extremist right wing Empire Loyalists heckled statesmen of three nations Tuesday night as they called for British participation in a European free trade area.

Prime Minister Macmillan, French Ambassador Jean Chauvel and Kurt Kiesinger, chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the West German Bundestag lower house, were interrupted during their speeches in Central Hall, London.

Among the other speakers calling for British participation was former prime minister Sir Winston Churchill.

Two women and three men were removed from the hall during Macmillan's speech. A banner was unfurled reading: "Empire Loyalists say stop Common Market sell-out. Stand firm for Empire trade."

As Macmillan spoke one man shouted: "Long live the British Empire" and another called out: "Why don't you take more Australian meat?"

Royal Commission on Juveniles Urged

B.C. Losing Battle on Delinquency

Provincial cabinet was urged yesterday to establish a royal commission into juvenile delinquency in British Columbia.

The request came from the B.C. Youth Council and the Community Chest and Council of Greater Vancouver in a brief presented to the cabinet.

In addition the groups urged the government to set up working boys and girls' homes throughout the province pending the presentation of the report of the proposed commission.

The commission should make a province-wide survey in order to ascertain all the relevant facts pertaining to the prevention and the treatment of youth behavior problems, the brief stated.

Cabinet was told there was a growing dissatisfaction with youth correctional and preventative programs in the juvenile delinquency problem.

"The Brannan Lake School for example has been unable to fulfil the expectations of those who planned it because it has been overcrowded since its opening and many boys in need of a longer period of treatment must be prematurely discharged in order to make room for new arrivals," the brief pointed out.

Juvenile courts were "bedevilled" by a lack of alternative residential facilities and by inadequate numbers of probation officers to supervise delinquents who are not committed to the institutions, is was stated.

Divided jurisdiction between municipal and provincial levels of government have militated further against a co-ordinated attack on the ever-growing problem of delinquency.

"In short our facilities are characterized by a multiplicity of excellent segments which could be a valuable part of an effective total program and which, unfortunately is not functioning as such," said the brief. "As a result, with a growing and increasingly urbanized population, British Columbia is losing the battle against juvenile delinquency."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

RICH people are always recommending poverty, for others. They argue that poverty is more uplifting than wealth, and also more fun.

They seldom go so far as to try it themselves. As some people say, after a hearing cold morning showers, or the drinking of ill-tasting medicines, rich people often plead that they had enough poverty in their youth to last them the remainder of their lives.

Their argument in favor of poverty has some merit to it, even if they don't practise what they preach. In these days of ample consumer credit, a man of small means can feel like a millionaire, until the first instalment on his yacht, or sports car comes due.

But there are still some people who can't raise the down payment, or who are burdened with an old-fashioned, neurotic compulsion to pay for things as they get them. People in this group can enjoy the benefits of poverty.

One of the advantages of being poor is that you get the full taste of small experiences.

Consider the matter of buying clothes, for instance. One man can order a suit as nonchalantly as he buys a package of gum. Another man has to wait until time and moths have eroded the old garment beyond help, and then he has to buy another one with the rent money. Which man is going to feel more strongly about the new suit?

The wealthy man may have better taste, and he may have his suit made to measure, but the poor man will remember the transaction longer. He's bound to remember it, because he will be wearing the suit until it falls to pieces.

When a man has been shuffling about clad in a thing that looks like a potato sack with buttons, his appearance in a new suit always stirs comment among friends and co-workers. But a man who has a suit for every day of the year misses this kind of attention, I believe.

He doesn't hear people saying: "Well, C.B., I see you're wearing the blue pin-stripe today." The best he can expect by way of personal small-talk is a compliment on the handsome design of a new hotel he has just acquired.

Down in my income bracket, however, a new suit is still a conversation piece. I bought a new suit recently, and my ears are still ringing from the comments it inspired. The usual pattern of talk was this:

"New suit, eh? Pretty sharp."

"Wife bullied me into buying it. Twelve dollars; bargain day; off the rack. An hour in the rain, and it should fit my little boy." (The rules demand that a man should answer compliments about a new suit by drawing attention to its cheapness, poor fit and unfortunate color.)

Everyone I met responded in the same way, except my friend Jim, who took a handful of sleeve between thumb and forefinger, and observed:

"Hmmm. Pretty good material. You ought to have a suit made from it."

You Were There, He Tells Wurtele

Ash Denies 'Pressure Group'

Beaver Elk Lakes property is not a dead issue as far as the provincial cabinet and Capital Improvement District Commission are concerned, Reeve Arthur Ash said yesterday.

He chided Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt for charges that the Saanich reeve is a member of a "pressure group" designing to get provincial funds allocated for Beaver Elk development while overlooking the Gorge.

"I don't want to get into a controversy with Reeve Wurtele," the Saanich reeve said. "But I want to point out that Beaver Elk Lake proposals were submitted to the commission in never finally turned down by the cabinet."

Both reeves are members of the CIDC which recommends district beautification projects to the provincial cabinet for approval.

Reeve Ash said that Reeve Wurtele was present at a meeting of the commission April 9 when members were informed that the cabinet promised to give the proposal further study.

At that meeting, the reeve said, we were also informed that the Gorge Park proposal had been rejected by the cabinet.

Reeve Wurtele asked the commissioner if the cabinet would consider a project to improve the road and bridge approach to Esquimalt's Gorge Park. He was told that the matter would be considered if it were submitted to the commission in the usual manner.

Reward Doubled

Find Mystery Woman And Win $200 Prize

Some Wednesday afternoon shopper may win $200 today by finding the "Six-Day Shopping Week Mystery Woman."

The prize offered last Wednesday was $100, but no one found the mystery shopper then, so this week the prize is doubled. If no one catches her this afternoon, the prize next Wednesday will be $300. It could even build up to $500 on July 31, final Wednesday of the contest sponsored by merchants whose stores are now open Wednesday afternoons for the summer.

Only clue to the appearance of the mystery shopper is that she wears a size 12 dress and size six shoes.

To win the prize, an adult shopper must ask her—in these words exactly—"Are you the Six-Day Shopping Week Mystery Woman?"

Civil Service

Last-Ditch Talks Today

issued a "strike-and-you're-fired" directive to civil servants.

Attorney-General Bonner and Provincial Secretary Black called newsmen into a conference yesterday to present "the government side of the story."

"Is the strike legal?" asked a reporter.

"No," said Mr. Bonner. But he would not say it was illegal.

"Individual civil servants have received poor advice when it is suggested they have the right to turn their services on or off," said the attorney-general.

"The only people being struck against is the public," he added.

Mr. Bonner said:

There is no provision for strike action by civil servants in provincial statutes.

He has "the impression" that the majority of civil servants will not go on strike, even if one is called.

NAME-CALLING

There has been too much name-calling in the dispute.

Statutes place "a fairly rigid wall" around the cabinet's freedom of action to meet the demands of the civil servants.

The door is still open for further negotiations. It has always been open.

Had discussions taken place several weeks ago between the cabinet committee and the civil service representatives the entire situation could have been avoided.

Strike action would be a breach of the oath of office taken by all employees when they join the service.

"Individual members of the government are personally resentful of the very obvious attempts that have been made to color the constitutional position of the executive as being an attitude of antagonism to labor," he said. "Our position is defined by statute and can't be changed by whim."

INTIMIDATION

Mr. Bonner said discussions had got off on the wrong foot because the civil servants executive had stated the government had to do several things or there would be a strike.

"The immediate reaction to that was that we were not free to consider the proposals on their merits but rather in the light of implied intimidation," he continued.

"What happens if the civil servants strike?" he was asked.

"In the first place all the employees will not walk out," the attorney-general replied. "Supervisory employees have no intention of abandoning their responsibilities and that goes for the vast majority of people who compose their staffs.

"A person has no more liberty by walking out . . . than a cabinet minister has of wilfully withholding his services from the crown," he added.

Mr. Bonner termed "a rather remarkable suggestion" that the civil servants would decide what services were essential and should be kept running.

"That is the sole responsibility of the provincial secretary," said Mr. Black. "In my view (their suggestion) is tantamount to asking for my resignation."

Mr. Bonner said if a strike takes place the government expects all services to be maintained.

"I'm not asking anyone to stay on the job," he said. "I'm expecting them to stay on the job. A very healthy skeleton (of the civil service) will be able to maintain all services."

DISMAL FLOP

"What you're saying is that any attempt to strike would be a dismal flop?" asked a reporter.

"It would be partial at best," Mr. Bonner replied.

"What happens if the majority do walk off?"

"The action to be taken will be announced as the situation arises," he answered.

"What about picket lines?"

"I have no thoughts on that," said the attorney-general.

Earlier Premier Bennett told reporters he was confident a settlement would be reached, just as a settlement had been reached in the woodworkers' dispute last week.

"It's just ridiculous to say the premier is anti-labor," he said. "There is no better friend of labor in the province than the present premier."

Meanwhile Alfred Bennett, the association assistant general secretary, took issue with the statements made by Mr. Bonner.

"I would say the attorney-general is completely out of touch with the situation," he declared. "We view with a lot of amusement his statement that the vast rank and file will still be working on Friday morning."

He said the government viewed civil servants as "the slaves of the government, not the servants of the public."

"It is our privilege to sever our services at any time we choose," he declared. "The oath of office has no meaning when we leave the service."

"We have no assurance that the government will take us back again. However, we feel they will have a job replacing 11,000 of us and the people of B.C. will not countenance from this government or any other government to dispense with people many thousands of whom have had 20 or 30 years of service with the government," he continued.

"It would appear the attorney-general hasn't the least conception of what strike action means when he assumes there is going to be sufficient people available to take care of essential services," Mr. Bennett stated.

"The association now feels it must call on the public to demand that the government . . . make immediate provisions to see that essential services such as hospitals, institutions and jails are kept running.

"The association executive cannot believe that any government would be so callous as to play around with the lives and possibly the sufferings of 5,000 or 6,000 people who are unfortunate enough to come under their care," he said.

Mr. Bennett also charged the provincial government with preparing to hire "scab labor" if the civil servants go on strike.

He said a letter sent to branch heads and government agents by assistant deputy finance minister W. F. Veitch last week asked them to "ascertain if sufficient casual employees can be recruited locally to insure essential services."

"That's scab labor," Mr. Bennett said. "We're waiting to see if it happens. If it does we'll jump in with both feet."

tended to all government employees."

This would include workers who are not members of the association.

At present about 8,000 people pay into the plan and membership in the association is essential.

Monthly premiums range from about $3.75 to $8. Under the new proposal the premiums would be halved.

It would be up to members of the plan to agree to enter into a wider scheme with the government.

However, proclamation of the Public Services Medical Plan enables the government to enter into an agreement with any other medical coverage program if the B.C. Government Employees' Medical Services Association refuses.

Soviet Union Still Wants Atomic Pact

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union still aims to reach an agreement with the West on ending nuclear weapon tests, Moscow Radio said Tuesday night.

Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin, at the United Nations disarmament talks Monday, sharply criticized the Western proposal that scientific experts begin immediately drafting a system of enforcing a moratorium on the tests, arguing this would be a "waste of time."

The Moscow radio commentator in an English-language broadcast said:

"If such a committee of experts were set up and got down to work, it might create the false impression among the public that there had been some sort of an agreement to stop tests when actually there has been no such thing.

"It was because of this that the Soviet delegate criticized the only practical proposal made by the Western powers.

"But does that mean he brought the disarmament talks to a deadlock? Certainly not."

Passengers Can't Talk

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UP) —High tide, two tugs and a Coast Guard cutter failed yesterday to get the British liner Reina Del Pacifico off a coral reef.

Relatives' complaints likewise failed to get her 700 passengers ashore.

The Reina has been hard aground since Monday.

Capt. E. C. Hicks imposed silence on passengers and crew, and an officer threatened to turn fire hoses on a small cabin cruiser that brought reporters alongside.

Relatives complained they could get no reply to cables to passengers aboard the ship.

Death's-Head Fireball

Fireball of the atomic bomb touched off from a captive balloon at Yucca Flat, Nev., takes the shape of a death's head as it spreads over desert. The bomb was largest ever detonated in the United States. The fireball set off brush fires and caved in some of the trenches in which marines were dug in, 5,700 yards away. There were no casualties.—(CPC)

Commonwealth Trade

Weapons: Tariffs, Capital

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada may propose the use of two specific instruments—tariffs and capital—to promote increased Commonwealth trade, well-informed authorities said Tuesday.

Canada's proposals will be worked into a draft agenda to be [illegible] finance ministers' conference here next September.

The ministers will decide, mainly on the basis of the agenda, whether to proceed with a full-scale Commonwealth trade and economic conference next year.

Officials said Prime Minister [illegible] the agenda when he proposed the new trade get-together at the Commonwealth prime ministers' meeting in London earlier this month.

Such a campaign, might, of course, cause some hard feelings in the United States, Canada's top customer, and among other non-Commonwealth countries.

The view here is that while the U.S. might object, she may agree that strengthening the Commonwealth would help the Free World in the struggle against Communism.

LONDON — Prime Minister Macmillan sidestepped a suggestion in Parliament that he now accept a long-standing Soviet invitation to visit Moscow as a result of the Kremlin purge.

Lots of Douglas Statues

The B.C. Centennial Committee will "give consideration" to a suggestion by a leading B.C. historian, B. A. McKelvie, that a statue be erected honoring the pioneer schoolma'am.

Committee chairman L. J. Wallace said yesterday the board of directors was meeting in about 10 days "and we will consider it then."

Mr. McKelvie said Victoria already had a shaft of Sir James on the legislative building grounds; a full-length statue of him above the front door of the buildings and another statue of him on the facade of the provincial library, and cairns at Clover Point and the Causeway noting historical links between Sir James and the founding of Victoria.

The pioneer women who provided "the most useful of public gifts, education," should be honored by a statue "carved objectively, and not in the modern style," he said.

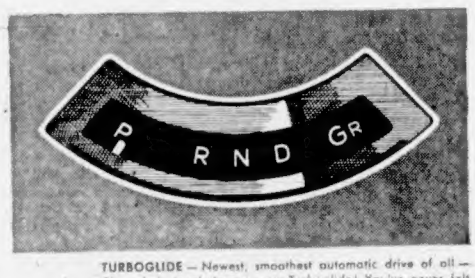
Chevrolet's just one good thing after another !

Here on this page are seven of those good things — just to start with. You can actually find them by the score — all the big features of the best-selling '57 Chevrolet! And every one of them is another clear, convincing reason why Chevrolet is so far ahead of all other cars in value, popularity, sales!

Sample Chevrolet's new softer ride, its easy handling, the quiet and lively performance, the conveniences, the luxuries. Continue the count, if you like, of the spectacular number of good things that go together so handsomely in Canada's favorite car. The more you look, the more you agree — there may be other cars in Chevrolet's field, but they're NOT in Chevrolet's class!

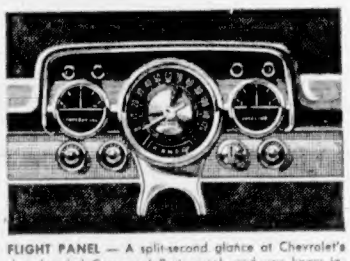
Don't miss out on it. See your nearest Chevrolet dealer now.



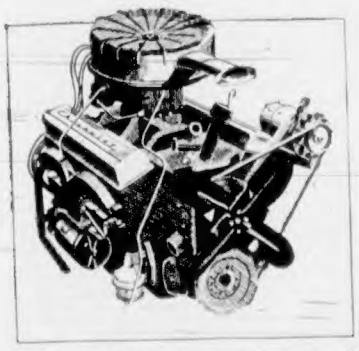
TURBOGLIDE — Newest, smoothest automatic drive of all — Chevrolet's revolutionary new Turboglide! You've never felt anything like it — ABSOLUTELY NO SENSATION OF SHIFT! Five positions, including "Park" for greater convenience and security . . . and new "Hill Retarder" for safer no-braking downhill driving! Try Chevy's exclusive Turboglide — or the famed Powerglide, most popular automatic on the road.

FASHION-CRAFTED INTERIORS — Come on in and relax! Here you'll find rich, lustrous fabrics, beautiful modern color combinations. Chevrolet's spacious, flawlessly appointed interiors would do a much higher-priced car proud!

Illustrated — Bel Air 2-Door Sedan



FLIGHT PANEL — A split-second glance at Chevrolet's deep-hooded Command Post panel, and you know instruments have never been so elegantly easy to read! Recessed control knobs add smart new safety!



SUPER TURBO-FIRE V8 — Like your performance proud? Come try the most high-spirited of Chevrolet's velvety high-compression Turbo-Fire V8's, yours in any of Chevrolet's 19 glamorous models. Take your choice of four brilliant V8's or Chevrolet's famous-for-economy Six, the liveliest, best-selling Six in the whole wide world!

AIR-INTAKE HEADLIGHT HOODS — Up to 22% more fresh, filtered air with Chevrolet's new ventilation air intakes, set high above road fumes! You feel more alert, more comfortable!

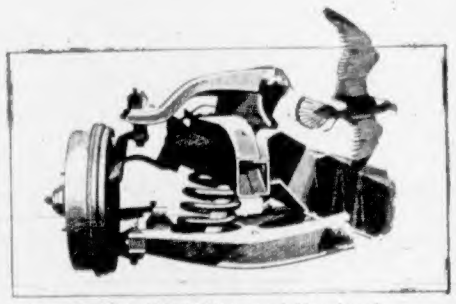
A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Month after month since the '57 Chevrolet was introduced, Canadians have bought more Chevrolets than any other car . . . positive proof of public preference.



GLIDE-RIDE FRONT SUSPENSION—A remarkable cushioned ride! Highly perfected knee action lets each wheel "step" over the rough spots. Take any road you like — all YOU feel is the superbly smooth, steady Chevrolet ride!

Trade in a Changing World

THE significant factor of international trade in the postwar era has been the extent to which governments have directed and controlled it through the medium of national policies. Although the dollar bloc may be an exception, for most nations export and import permits have been the start of all movement of goods across national borders. While from a currency and economic standpoint regulation in some form is likely to remain for a good long time, it is also true that freeing the flow of commodities that can reasonably be exchanged in world commerce will in the long run offer the best hope of relieving world tensions on any enduring basis.

A supra-national manifestation of both the desire and indeed the necessity of taking commerce out of the governmental strait-jacket where world conflict and its aftermath has landed it is coming now in Western Europe. New trading alignments between the principal trading nations on the Western seaboard of the continent have been proposed, accepted and are now beginning to take form. Conservation of fuel resources and power, the removal where possible of inter-border customs restrictions, easement of regionally-operated tariffs, and more flexible exchange facilities are long steps into the future for the nations concerned.

From Canada's standpoint, as Prime Minister Diefenbaker has foreseen, there are two avenues along which this nation may progress in the development of its commerce with the free world: the Commonwealth, where its membership is assured and its welcome unchanged; and with independent or regionally-linked countries outside of that union. Of the latter, Western Europe now undergoing irrevocable changes, will remain an important element in Canadian thinking. Mr. Diefenbaker has already had some success in his effort to promote trade discussions within the Commonwealth. The meeting to be held at Ottawa in response to his invitation can certainly enter upon new and promising ground. That is something for the future.

Meanwhile, however, much will depend upon Canada's own efforts to understand what is taking place across the Atlantic and to co-operate with what clearly is an advance for the several nations concerned. In some respects our trading may prove more difficult, while in others the reverse may prove to be the case. Western Europe cannot afford to trade with this country unless that is a two-way movement from the beginning. It is this factor, not always sufficiently appreciated in the past, which is coming to the fore now. Upon whatever terms it is considered, the industrial revival in Western Europe will change many trading patterns in the postwar world.

The Speakership

THE foremost plank in the Diefenbaker election campaign was the restoration of the dignity and influence of Parliament, in contrast to the rubber-stamp stigma which the Liberal regimes had imposed on it. It was a successful appeal to the electorate, nor is there doubt that the Conservative prime minister will practise what he preached. A corollary of this is the question of the Speakership. There is an opportunity now to put it on more firmly impartial basis.

Normally the government nominates the Speaker and he can be sure of his position only for a parliamentary term. This can lead not only to changes in a post whose value grows with long tenure and experience, but also to suspicion of partisanship. The pipeline debate for example destroyed the last Speaker, who up until then would probably have been a unanimous choice had his post been made permanent. Unless the latter becomes so a Speaker will always lack the unreserved support of the House on all occasions, simply because he owes his position and his political future to the government in power.

In this respect the British method is worth copying. There the Speaker, once elected, may remain as the presiding officer of the Commons for the rest of his parliamentary life. He is seldom opposed in his constituency at election times; he becomes regarded as above and beyond political parties; his freedom in this respect strengthens his position and makes him the embodiment of parliamentary decorum and authority. Putting it more bluntly, he has no axe to grind one way or another and therefore may be utterly impartial at all times, and, what is even more important for the conduct of parliamentary business, his impartiality is never doubted.

It is expected therefore that Mr. Diefenbaker will lean towards the British system of Speakership. Probably most MPs no matter what their party affiliation would agree that this is the only way in which the Speaker can be set beyond suspicion and left free to concentrate on the important procedural task which is essential to the maintenance and functioning of Parliament. If he is willing to serve in this capacity and on this understanding the best man in the House for the job should be selected, irrespective of the party to which he may presently be attached. Once he becomes Speaker he would be as Canadian judges are regarded, beyond the reach of party favor or disfavor.

Urge To Destroy

ABOUT 10 days ago a number of trim new buses acquired by the B.C. Electric Company were placed in service on city streets. Broad, roomy and attractively decorated, they evoked favorable comment by transit users throughout the community. Already, however, some of them have returned to the car barn at the end of the day in a defaced condition; their seats cut with a knife, initials scratched in metal and gummy layer of chewing gum deposited around generally. What is to account for wilful damage of such a nature? It cannot profit any individual and the cost in the last analysis will be borne by the public itself.

The defacing of the new buses is not an isolated instance of the inexplicable urge to destroy. Gardeners in the city have reported companion examples of wilful, uninhibited destruction of plants and flowers that by no stretch of imagination could have been a gain to anyone. The same thing in an even more direct form has emerged time and again from police reports of break-ins in urban and rural homes. Hardly a week goes by without some instance of a deliberate attempt at "wrecking." In a recent case where a home was broken into little was stolen, but ink was deliberately poured over the floors, tables and furniture.

There can only be a limited number of individuals in any community in whom the urge to desecrate, without any possible benefit to the perpetrator, is present. In this community where mischievous and wilful damage has been done to public transit vehicles only a few days in service, perhaps the time has come to trace them and put an end to these moronic actions. Regardless of age, they are obviously upset in their mental equilibrium.

Interpreting the News

Red China's First Secretary

By ERIC DOWNTON

North American Newspaper Alliance

NEW YORK—Almost unknown in the West is one of the world's most powerful men: Liu Shao-Ch'i, first secretary of the Chinese Communist Party.

Working mostly away from public view—but always at the elbows of much-publicized leader Mao Tse-Tung, Premier Chou En-Lai and republic vice-chairman Marshal Chu Teh—Liu Shao-Ch'i is the gray eminence of Red China.

Western non-Communist observers attending the National People's Congress just held in Peiping report that Liu's position as ideological pacemaker for the Communist Chinese regime appears to have strengthened during the past year.

A British Commonwealth diplomat reported after the Congress: "Mao Tse-Tung still has the last word, but Liu Shao-Ch'i plans details of the rapid march toward socialism and industrialization."

Liu's official designation is first secretary of the Chinese Communist Party and chairman of the standing committee of the National People's Congress. He has performed the functions of head of state when his older colleagues have been out of the country.

As party first secretary he is next in line of succession to Mao Tse-Tung as party chairman—top man in Red China.

A Moscow-trained Communist, he is a major rebuttal for Western wishful thinkers who constantly scan the China skies for signs of a Titoist dawn. As Communist China's principal theoretician Liu has, significantly, made most of the important party-line speeches over the past dozen years.

He is a dogmatic Marxist ideologist. Some observers recently in Peiping believe this rigidity of concept might eventually cause him to lose power as a result of the vast changes taking place throughout China, still predominantly a peasants' land.

Born 59 years ago in Hunan, son of a well-to-do farmer, Liu joined the Communist Party in Shanghai around 1920. Since then he has specialized in Communist control of industrial workers.

This contrasts with Mao Tse-Tung—also an offshoot of a fairly wealthy Hunanese farming family—who disregarded much Moscow advice and devised a revolutionary formula based on the Chinese peasantry. But Liu's stature as a labor specialist grows with the rapid industrialization of China.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT is surprising to note the pique that afflicts the cultists of "modern" art when they do not get all their own way. Tolerance is obviously not one of their virtues, or any kind of recognition that other people have some right to their own preferences.

Thus if one doesn't fall for the current jargon about contemporary structures one is a deadhead or is stupid and ignorant. These masterminds never illustrate their case by explaining the kind of designs they advocate but instead adopt a supercilious pose towards any art form or building that antedates their own years.

Seemingly to them art only began when they were born.

The thought of a Government House that is not a glorified soda fountain, for example, gives them apoplexy; but if they really have something to offer let them point to the kind of building they have in mind. If there is none extant then they are talking in a vacuum; if there is one let it be cited.

A rigmarole of fancy words means nothing.

The trouble with the cultists is that all they do is berate individuals whose tastes differ from their own, when it is high time they turned their critical faculties towards their own breed. They might win converts if they did not acclaim every piece of "modern" art as a masterpiece.

Do they ever concede that a contemporary work might be poor or badly executed? They do not. As long as it is in "modern" style that is all sufficient. Their scorn is kept for persons puzzled by abstractions which are unidentifiable. Actually the cultists weaken the force of their declared concepts by embracing any and every "modern" work, no matter its quality.

Thus it is that are curators bid for canvases that have been stamped in paint by the hind legs of a monkey; that a painter can be acclaimed as a genius who openly admits to dribbling, glue, mud, paint, and anything else that comes to hand, higgledy-piggledy onto to a canvas laid flat on the ground; that a prankster can take the cloth painters wipe their brushes on, frame it, and have it certified as a great work of art; that abstract sculptures or paintings have to be labelled before even the "experts" know what they are supposed to represent.

How can so-called modern or contemporary art be respected when these abortions can be perpetrated? And without one word of dissent from the cultists.

If they hope to persuade the uninitiated to their superior standards let them acknowledge these fakes to be fakes; let them explain—earnestly without sneer—their own credo; let them recite chapter and verse of their craft; then perhaps lesser beings might come to believe that after all "modern" art is not just an excuse for inability to reproduce the things the cultists condemn.

The pose of intellectual superiority wears thin—and this is the besetting sin of the cultists—when mockery and snobbery are the only weapons by which they seek to impress others that they are mental supermen.

A touch of humility would do them a world of good.

Probing Outer Space

By JAMES MURRAY

LONDON — The new giant radio telescope for the University of Manchester, at Jodrell Bank, England, which is now nearly ready for use, is not merely a unique scientific instrument, and the most sensitive short wave radio receiver and transmitter ever constructed, but an outstanding example of engineering skill.

The conception of a steerable radio telescope capable of remaining fixed on one point in space, irrespective of the rotation of the earth or the motion of the earth round the sun, arose from the important results gained by the operation of the fixed reflector installed at the Jodrell Bank Research Station in the English county of Cheshire. An instrument was sought which would improve immensely on the capabilities of the fixed reflector which had already made it possible for British scientists to study the daytime sky and to map the great nebula of Andromeda.

To create this structure involved the solution of innumerable problems—engineering and electrical. The first was the designing of a reflector which would keep its shape within close limits during rotation and under the effects of wind pressures and temperature variations. The second was to devise a system of driving strong enough to control the telescope under any foreseeable wind conditions.

A third major problem was to produce a method of control so that the telescope would automatically follow any point in space and at the same time could be used to scan predetermined areas and to track moving objects. Fourth, and by no means the last of the difficulties, was to produce a design for manufacturers and constructors who could never before have been faced with the building of a mobile apparatus of such size.

It was decided that the structure should be an enormous bowl of steel, because of its capacity to retain its shape and its elasticity under the great stress changes created by the revolution of the bowl. There was ample information of wind pressures on plain surfaces and lattice structures.

There was none at all on the possible effects of wind on a bowl of 250 feet diameter which might be facing in any direction. The designer was able to secure essential data from experimental work carried out in a wind tunnel at the National Physical Laboratory at Teddington, near London.

Even when details of the design had been fixed, the difficulties of creating the Jordell Bank radio telescope had only started. Bearings for the centre pivot and trunnions on which the reflector structure revolves, the bogies which carry the 2,000 tons of the telescope on specially hardened rails, the driving gear and control panel, all had to be specially designed.

Intricate tasks of electrical wiring were required to make if possible for one man at a control desk, well away from the telescope, to be kept fully informed about the direction and movements of the telescope, and to direct it as needed. And the actual construction had to be completed at great heights and in positions extremely hard to reach and work in.

Now the task is virtually finished and soon scientists will be taking up their work in the steel laboratory hung immediately below the centre of the bowl and the high-level laboratories at the top of each of the main bearing towers, seeking out secrets of outer space beyond the limits of visual exploration.

What mysteries the new telescope may probe remains to be discovered, but in making the instrument for the search, the engineers have achieved a feat which deserves to rank as a major triumph of ingenuity and skill.

His Golf Score?

(From the Oregonian)

WE have a candidate for the worst-covered news story of this or any other year: President Eisenhower's golf game.

Here is one of the world's most celebrated personalities — certainly its most celebrated regular golfer—and no one has been able to discover for sure whether he's duffer or scratch player. The latest unsatisfactory report—that second hand from U. S. Senator Prescott Bush—gave Ike's score for but one nine of the 18. A reporter would be fired for such sloppy coverage.

What is one to think of a world press network which flashes the most intimate details of the president's daily life, yet cannot say whether he beat the premier of Japan at Burning Tree; which has pictured Winston Churchill at the easel hundreds of times, even Cal Coolidge incongruously in the middle of a trout stream, but cannot manage to get a single card from an Eisenhower foursome?

We know what we think of it, we're ashamed.

The Packsack

Major Operation

By GREGORY CLARK

UP at my summer community are a number of doctors, with a fairly heavy saturation of orthopedic surgeons. One of these owns a Weimaraner dog, about the size of a slim pointer; greyish liver colored, with pale distant eyes. Last weekend, the doctor was on a pre-season visit to his cottage, and the dog got into a porcupine. His long, competent mouth got a mouthful.

With the doctor, his master, was another orthopedic surgeon, a guest. They grabbed the frantic dog and managed to jam a block of wood between his jaws. But to attempt to extract the quills by hand was hopeless. The dog had the strength and fury of a maniac. Wrapping him in a coat for a straight-jacket, and one doctor holding the dog's nose to keep the block of wood intact, they scrambled into their outboard and drove pell mell for the nearest doctor, who was another orthopedic surgeon a mile away. This one had his son with him, another orthopedic surgeon. That makes four.

They bore the dog into the boathouse, while the resident surgeon, so to speak, ran up to his cottage for a can of ether he had been keeping at the cabin for years, for just such an emergency as this. But the can was empty. The ether had evaporated, probably around 1954.

However, he did scrounge up some old retired forceps and tweezers he had brought up to the cottage for fish skinning and such like. And the four orthopedic surgeons, each of whom would have collected $500 from any tycoon for what they had to go through in the next fifteen minutes, knelt on the Weimaraner there in the boathouse, holding a leg each, and took turns, as opportunity permitted, depending on which way they were facing at the moment, at prying the block of wood in and out of the dog's jaws and nipping out the quills. They started near the door, but were right at the back end of the boathouse, halfway under a hoisted launch, by the time the job was finished and the crazed Weimaraner was let up to run like mad for a drink in the lake.

By the time I heard of the operation, the exhausted surgeons were recovering.

"In case you wish to report this incident," said the senior of the orthopods, "you might let it be known that from now on, I am confining my practice to chihuahuas."

On the Record

It Haunts His Dreams

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

IT is clear from the news conferences in Washington last week that the president and his chief advisers are not of one mind concerning the atomic arms race and that a [illegible] afoot to restrain the president from going too far in concessions to the Russians. These apprehensions in Washington are also reflected in London, Paris and Bonn.

Are they justified?

The president, as he has repeatedly shown, has a fixed idea that another great war will be an unmitigated disaster to all nations; that nothing but universal woe and disaster can come from it; that it can result in no such thing as victory.

This is certainly not a unique idea. But the president's conviction and feeling are not apparently shared by other statesmen (or military men, which he professionally is) to anything like the same degree of overweaning intensity except by the Pope, who rules no temporal kingdom.

Nikita Khrushchev has publicly deplored war, but he has never said Russia could not win one. He has said the opposite. The editor of Izvestria said to me 18 months ago in Moscow: "We don't want war, but we are not afraid of it."

The president is afraid of it. He said in a recent news conference: "I have told you time and time again—I repeat it almost in my sleep—there will be no such thing as a victorious side in any global war of the future." It haunts his dreams. It is the nightmare.

This conviction and feeling are bolstered, and, we think, occasioned by a profoundly religious view of life, not weaker because he expresses it only by inference. President Eisenhower thinks of his duty to God.

Certainly no such concept animates his Russian adversaries, whose cosmos has no god but history, and therefore no transcendant imperatives of good or evil. The president not only thinks another war would be humanly disastrous; he believes it would be disastrous because it would be religiously and morally wrong.

The president's feeling and conviction apparently alarm the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, Admiral Radford, the head of the Atomic Energy Commission, Lewis Strauss, and the secretary of state, Mr. Dulles. They are aware that a man who believes in peace as strongly as the president tends to favor it at any price and to trust his adversaries to the point of foolhardiness.

So they have been martialing their forces to offset his pacific eagerness.

Harold Stassen has been negotiating over disarmament, offering a whole "package." Valerian Zorin, for the Russians has been pounding on one theme alone; start with the first step of suspending all further atomic weapon tests.

The president's first reaction to this was not negative. In his press conference June 19 he said: "I would be . . . delighted to make some satisfactory arrangement for temporary suspension of tests."

Not so his advisers. Last week atomic energy chairman Strauss brought three leading nuclear scientists to the White House to tell the president that a bomb was in production that would cut fall-out from nine tenths to 100 per cent.

A day later the president conceded that testing of "clean" bombs would not endanger civilization and might help develop atomic energy for peaceful purposes.

Next day Defence Secretary Wilson, commonsensical as usual, said suspension of tests would be a "nuisance" in developing guided missiles but would not stop the arms race.

So we are back on the whole package and the president has been "contained."

But what haunts his sleep will hardly evaporate. It is not weapons tests. It is war—for which all weapons are made, and whose eventual test lies in the will to fight and to use them.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

As the doorman ran down to open the limousine, he tripped and rolled down the last four steps. "For heaven's sake, be careful!" admonished the club manager. "People will think that you are one of the members!"

* * *

The Russian press reports that there is mass starvation in North America. Its reporters must have been listening to a teen-ager in that long, agonizing fast between the 5 o'clock snack and the 6 o'clock dinner.

* * *

If you were stranded at the South Pole, what would you miss most? That was the question which was asked men who are actually at the pole working on "Operation Deep-freeze."

One of the best answers was simply —"Temptation."

Letters to the Editor

The Civil Service

Premier Bennett is to be commended on his efforts to successfuly avert a strike of the woodworkers union.

If these members of organized labor and the carpenters as well, who I understand are preparing to claim wages at $3 per hour, wish to price themselves out of employment and ruin the economy of British Columbia I suppose there is nothing that can be done about it. They, of course, will suffer with the rest of the population.

With regard to civil servants, however, they are in an entirely different category. While no one questions their right to collective bargaining, the weapon of a strike should not be available to them, if for no other reason than that any strike by the civil servants is a strike against the Queen in the right of the Province of British Columbia and against the people of British Columbia.

Civil servants are not employees in industry and while they have a perfect right to make salary demands the only appropriate way in which they can enforce those demands is to prevail upon members of the Legislature to support them.

Civil servants, whether they be on federal, provincial or municipal levels form part of the machinery of government. They are in fact to all intents and purposes a profession and it is sad to think that their leaders do not appreciate this special and honorable status enjoyed by them nor the responsibilities that are implicit with their employment under the Crown.

Mr. Robert Strachan refers to their remuneration as being that of sweated labor. He is talking through his political hat!

Need for Panacea

Press reports and radio comments these last few days have painted a very disturbing and deplorable condition in the B.C. economy and the great need for some panacea for this cancer of selfishness which is slowly but surely sapping our industrial vitality.

But as I see it, who really can be pin-pointed and put on the spot as setting the example for others to do likewise but our federal and provincial governments, especially the Ottawa outfit; all of these increases being adopted without the chance of any comment or conciliation being sought from the general public.

Writing personally, such actions make me disgusted at present day trends.

Drinking Parents

Your columns of July 4 announce that an American authority on alcoholism has concluded—doubtless as the result of profound research, and probably with the assistance of the usual complement of Gallup Polls—that in homes where the parents do not drink the formation of drinking habits by their children exhibits a much lower ratio.

One must assume that this learned savant has been trained in a rarefied scientific atmosphere in which anything so cheap and vulgar as a proverb would be unknown; ordinary people, however, have probably heard it said that example is better than precept, and that as the twig is bent the tree's inclined.

Be that as it may, over 70 years ago in England we were being taught that lesson week by week; and my parents likewise 30 years before that. But in those days this was being ridiculed "by all sensible people" as the idiotic nonsense of temperance fanatics!

Monkeys and Polio

Not one word of comment from doctor or clergyman anent the moral aspect of sacrificing monkeys for the prevention of polio. Juvenile delinquency is one of the things that stem from the spineless, self-centered apathy of those who should lead the way to a better world. News item that tuberculosis costs Canada $40,000,000 a year—not to mention the suffering of the victims. So another news item of a few years back, from Asheville, N.C., that a former army doctor Benjamin P. Sandler, said that he and other doctors had learned through experiments that elimination of sugars and starches from the diet will ward off polio.

He could have added that all respiratory diseases, including tuberculosis, could be checked, or cured by the same abstinence from sugar, milk and starchy foods, which are all mucous forming.

News to Me, Says Gunderson

PGE Sale 'Pipe Dream'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Einar M. Gunderson, vice-president of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, said Tuesday reports that the provincially-owned railway is up for sale to American railroads are "somebody's pipe dream."

"There's nothing to it," said Mr. Gunderson. "At least, I haven't heard anything about it and I imagine I would if this report were true."

Published reports here earlier Tuesday said the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railroads were negotiating to buy the Pacific Great Eastern for $114,500,000.

The same reports said the two American railways, which operate competitively between St. Paul, Minn., and the United States Pacific Northwest, would extend the PGE north from Dawson Creek, in northeastern B.C., to Alaska.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett would use the money from the sale, the report said, to pay off the PGE's net debt and use the balance for highways.

He could not be reached immediately for comment in Victoria.

Charles W. Moore, executive assistant to president J. M. Budd of the Great Northern denied the report by telephone from St. Paul.

"This is a constantly recurring rumor," said Mr. Moore. "It's not the first time I've heard it, and I feel it won't be the last.

"But I've taken the trouble to check it, and I know there's nothing to it."

President Robert S. MacFarlane of the Northern Pacific could not be reached, but the railroad's chief public relations officer, L. L. Perrin, said from St. Paul that he had heard nothing of the reported sale.

Soprano to Sing Here

She's Helen Hayes' Voice

Helen Hayes' "voice" will sing with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra when the Butchart Gardens present the first of three summer concerts at the gardens Thursday evening.

The singer is pretty Eileen Di Tullio, a coloratura soprano from New York, whose two major achievements in the arts are two years on Broadway and a finalist's position in the Metropolitan Opera auditions of the air this year.

She was the singing voice of Helen Hayes when the play "Happy Birthday" ran on Broadway some years ago, missing only one performance in two years because of illness in a job that required an understudy and brought forth the following verse from the late Charles MacArthur, Miss Hayes' husband:

"A wreath of orchids to Eileen—who is heard but never seen."

Despite the excitement of Broadway, the singer said in an interview here yesterday, she prefers the operatic world because "I never felt at home in the theatre. . . . It sounds prosaic, but some of the people are insincere."

Daughter of an actor, the late Joseph Capraro, the soprano is married to vocal coach Aldo Di Tullio and has a daughter, eight-year-old Alexis.

Marriage, which came during the "Happy Birthday" run, and the baby slowed down her career but in the last year, she auditioned for soprano Blanche Thebom and then "Met" boss Rudolf Bing, and came close to winning the radio auditions.

To further her career, she has plans to go to Europe for operatic work and "possibly make recordings — that's the only way you can make a name over here."

She will sing at the Gardens arias by Bellini and Donizetti, which were in her auditions repertoire, along with songs by Saint-Saens, Gershwin and Victor Herbert.

The orchestra will add music of Mendelssohn, Mascagni, Copland, a Strauss waltz, "Dance of the Hours" and music from "My Fair Lady."

Only admission to the concerts is the regular gate fee, and gardens officials have urged concert-goers again to come early and picnic on the grounds.

Obituaries

Woman Earned Gratitude Of Victoria Servicemen

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 11 a.m. at St. George-the-Martyr Church, Cadboro Bay, for Mrs. Jane (Jean) Isobel Colquhoun, 67, who died Monday in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

A resident of Victoria since 1926, she earned the gratitude of many servicemen after the Second World War by meeting them at Victoria wharf, distributing cigarets and helping as many as she could. Many relatives and veterans were repatriated through her efforts.

Born in West Kilbride, Scotland, Mrs. Colquhoun came to Canada in 1909.

At the outbreak of the First World War she went overseas with her husband, Brig. W. G. Colquhoun, 624 Island Highway, Langford, helping at the Army and Navy Leave Club in Paris.

Returning to Canada she helped to form a women's auxiliary to the Victoria Veterans' Hospital. She was later presented with the first honorary life membership of the organization.

She is survived by her husband, a brother, Andrew W. Mackenzie, Vancouver, and a sister, Mrs. J. H. Frank, Victoria.

Rev. W. A. Ferguson will officiate at funeral services, with interment in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Henry C. Watts

Funeral services for Henry Cumner Watts, 96, will be held at 10.30 a.m. today from Chaplin's funeral home.

Mr. Watts, lighthouse engineer on Discovery Island for 33 years, died Saturday at Mountain View Home after spending 60 years on the coast.

A steam engineer, born in London, England, he came to Victoria in 1896 and worked on coast tugboats before becoming engineer of the Discovery Island power plant in 1901.

Archdeacon A. E. deL. Nunns will officiate at funeral services followed by interment in Ross Bay Cemetary.

Herbert C. Rogers

Funeral services will be held from Sands funeral home at 3.15 p.m. today for well-known boating enthusiast Herbert Christopher Rogers, 50, who died Sunday at his home, 5450 Alderley Road.

He was founder of the firm of Rogers Welding Supplies Ltd., 1119 Wharf, in 1953.

Born in England he lived in Hamilton, Ont., where he started his own welding contracting business.

In 1933 he built the first all-welded pleasure cruiser in Canada. The 34-foot craft is still in operation on the Great Lakes.

Mr. Rogers moved to Victoria in 1945. After spending a year in California he returned and started his own welding supply company.

Mr. Rogers was a member of Victoria Rotary Club, Columbia Royal Arch Chapter, and Henderson Lodge No. 48, AF and AM, under whose auspices the funeral will be held.

He is survived by two sons, Christopher and Frederick, Victoria, and a daughter Mrs. Mabel Weideman, Chicago, Ill., two sisters, two brothers, and nieces and nephews in Hamilton.

New Concert Series Gets Good Start

By BERT BINNY

A good start being, proverbially, half the battle, those responsible for the arrangements of the Victoria College Summer School programs achieved success yesterday, when they opened the 1957 series with soprano Christa Ortlepp in recital.

Mrs. Ortlepp, on the other hand, saved her outstanding item to the last, her Gavotte ("Come and obey the voice of youth") from Massenet's "Manon" being sheer joy to hear from any viewpoint.

Mrs. Ortlepp possesses a voice of singular resource, well controlled. If there is any slight suggestion of insecurity, it occurs only in the lower registers.

She sang numbers in German, English and Italian. Giordani's "Caro Mio Ben" was striking as was Schubert's "Du bist die Ruh."

"Die Forelle" ("The Trout") also by Schubert, provides the singer with competition from a most unexpected quarter, the accompaniment. It has amazing interpretive interest.

Christa Ortlepp was joined by Jessie Lake for four duets by Mendelssohn. "Gruss" and "Autumn Song" were outstanding.

Accompaniment, always of the best, was by Nora Haimberger.

Great artistry and lovely music marked this concert. But a point of significance is to be noted in the fact that, even in a cosmopolitan selection of items, each number had appeal.

Swastika Denounces Socred Government

A sign bearing a German swastika was found on the legislative buildings by commissionaires Monday morning.

The sign carried German writing, denouncing the Social Credit government. It was destroyed by the commissionaires.

Enthusiasm for a new four-team softball league for youngsters of navy personnel at Belmont Park is mirrored on the faces of these spectators who crowd the bleachers to watch last night's action. Youngsters 10 to 15 years of age are taking part in the program designed to provide supervised competition.

Getting in a practice lick at sliding into base is 10-year-old Ron Aubrey, who plays for the Oriole team. The new league opened play last night with a good turnout of youngsters on hand and the parents pitching in to help with the operation.

Throwing out the first ball was Commodore Patrick Budge, who gets into the swing of things here by going behind the bat for Dennis Hutchings. Competition was keen last night, indicating a real fight for top honors.—(Colonist photos by Jim Ryan.)

Ninth-Inning Error Proves Difference As National League Rally Just Misses

ST. LOUIS—Casey Stengel's American League team proved Tuesday that the 6-5 odds quoted on them were just about perfect as they nipped the National League, 6-5, in the annual major league all-star game.

But it took two unearned runs in the ninth inning, the result of an error by the usually reliable Red Schoendienst, to give the winners the runs they needed. The National League power finally showed in the last of the ninth, producing three runs before Bob Grim, the second relief pitcher of the inning, got pinch-hitter Gil Hodges on a line drive for the last out of the game with the tying run on second base.

MINOSO A HELP

Ebullient Minnie Minoso turned out to be the American League hero. Playing in his first all-star game since 1954, the last win for the American League.

Minoso doubled home what proved to be the winning run. Then, with the National Leaguers threatening, he made a perfect throw to third base to get Gus Bell, trying to advance from first on a single, for the second out and gathered in Hodges' difficult drive for the third out.

Minoso came into the game in the eighth inning as a replacement for left-fielder Ted Williams, who failed to get a hit in three trips.

Up until the ninth-inning splurge by the losers, it had been a very ordinary game, hardly doing justice to the talent on display for the sell-out crowd at Busch Stadium and the millions who saw it on television.

Jim Bunning, Detroit's young righthanded ace, set the National League down in order in the three innings he worked as a starting pitcher, but his successors were far from impressive.

Billy Loes managed to pitch three scoreless innings but he was in trouble from time to time, being tagged for three hits and needing a fast double play to pull him out of his worst jam.

LOTS OF TROUBLE

Early Wynn, the third straight righthander, only got one man out in the seventh before he was taken out with three hits charged against his delivery. Billy Pierce got the side out and got through the eighth inning unscathed but the Chicago southpaw star couldn't get a man out in the ninth.

Don Mossi, ace Cleveland relief pitcher, also needed help after getting two men out, one on Minoso's alert play and great throw, and Grim was lucky Hodges' smash was within Minoso's reach.

Southpaw Curt Simmons, the National League starter, got by the first inning but couldn't get a man out in the second. Lew Burdette got the side out with two runs, both charged to Simmons, and held the winners until the sixth inning, when they got their third run off rookie Jack Sanford to make the score 3-0.

Farmers Best Burnaby, 8-1—League Takes On Umpires

The feud between Farmer Construction and the Vancouver Island Umpires' Association flared anew at Royal Athletic Park last night, and indications were that there may be a long and bitter battle before the matter is settled.

Up in arms over the decision of the Northwest Semi-Pro Baseball League not to allow umpire Gordie Perkins to officiate at any games involving Farmers, the association carried out its threat and did not provide umpires for last night's game against Burnaby Athletics.

With volunteer Bruce McAuley behind the plate and Burnaby coach Stan Carter on the bases, the clubs went ahead with the game, and Farmers won it handily, 8-1.

DOUBLE-CROSS?

According to Charlie Welbourne, president of the northern division of the league, the Island umpires also saw to it that no other umpires were available.

"I was told we might not have umpires, so I arranged with the Vancouver Umpires' Association to bring two over with me," Welbourne stated last night, and produced the plane tickets reserved for the umpires.

"Then I got a call from one of them this afternoon. He said that someone from the Vancouver Island association had called him, told him the situation here was under control, and not to bother sending umpires over for tonight's game."

Welbourne was obviously hopping mad over the situation.

"I'll tell you one thing though, the league will back this thing all the way. When I get back to Vancouver, the Vancouver Association will either guarantee umpires for Victoria games or they won't be working for the league anymore."

WOULD USE GIRLS

Welbourne also stated that both Burnaby and Vancouver Young Liberals, the other clubs in the northern division, would play their scheduled Victoria games with any umpires Farmers could find to officiate, even if they had to use girls.

"What's more, if I had my way the only way your local umpires could get into the ball park from now on is if they bought a ticket."

Ernie Stock, president of the Vancouver Island Umpires' Association, was not available for comment last night.

The game itself was something of a two-man show, as Farmers' new "kid battery" turned in a sparkling performance.

Sixteen-year-old Dave Emery threw his second straight five-hitter, and 18-year-old catcher Jim Moody picked up three hits in four trips to drive in four runs.

Emery, star of the Babe Ruth League last season, struck out three and walked three. He lost his shutout in the fourth inning, when Bill Kinder hit a ball that lodged in the centre-field screen and was credited with a home run.

Farmers play Seattle Hi-Rainiers at Royal Athletic Park Saturday at 2.30 and 8 p.m.

It is not often that the medalist in a qualifying round goes on to win the chief award, but it happened this year in the handicap championship at Royal Colwood.

S. G. Evans, who took the medal on a playoff, won the championship flight by beating George Greenwood in the final.

The other results were: first flight—Ed Cuppage beat Vic Painter; second flight—G. L. Hay beat Dave Hogarth; third flight—Tom Harris Jr. beat C. Craster; fourth flight—L. McCooey beat Wilf Cotton; fifth flight—Ken Brousseau beat Allan Mutch; sixth flight—Len Stapleton beat George Goodwin; seventh flight—Cliff Denham beat A. Foreman; eighth flight—C. Lawson beat Pat Frith; ninth flight—Bob Proctor beat R. Dunnett.

HOT FOURSOME: One of the hottest foursomes seen around these parts for some time played at Victoria Golf Club Sunday afternoon. Bob Fleming, recent winner of the Cowichan Open, shot a one-under-par 68, and Hugh Morrison, who is now living in Vancouver, went around his old course in 69.

They were playing with Laurie Carroll and George Straith, and the latter set the tone for the match by holing out in one at the 150-yard second hole with a No. 5 iron.

WINS MAYNARD TROPHY: The 18-hole medal handicap tournament for the Maynard Trophy at Gorge Vale last Sunday was won by George Murphy. His round of 91, less 27, gave him a 64 net, one ahead of Bob Johnstone (73-8—65) and C. McBeth (75-8—67).

SUCCESSFUL DEFENCE: C. J. Robertson and Captain Kempston of Uplands, who won the seniors buttons against George Goodwin and Dr. Gill of Colwood at Gorge Vale recently, made a successful first defence of their title at Uplands when they beat Charlie Smith and George Bell.

COLWOOD TEAM LEADS: Royal Colwood made a fine start in their home-and-home annual match with the Rainier club of Seattle. They took the team match Sunday at Colwood by 60½ points to 39½, winning the singles by 30½ to 19½ and the foursomes by 30 to 20.

In the leading matches Bill Court beat the visiting professional, Ray Honsberger, by one hole, while Bill McColl, out in 32 with three birdies and six pars, was too strong for Paul Fiorito.

In the horse race on Saturday the winner was Laurie Kerr, with Fiorito second and McColl third.

Return match at Rainier is set for Aug. 24-25.

Another inter-club match is scheduled Sunday when a 12-man team of low handicap golfers from Port Angeles invades the Colwood layout.

SHARP ON GREENS: Len Hibberson, better known these days perhaps as a coho fisherman, shot an unusual 75 over Uplands Sunday. He had one putts on 15 greens for a total of 21 putts for the round. Unfortunately Len wasn't hitting the ball too well from tee to green otherwise he could have had a remarkable score.

* * *

DUES TO UPLANDS JUNIORS: Belated congratulations are due to the two Uplands boys, Bill Wakeham and Dale Dalziel, who represented the Victoria district in the recent B.C. junior championship at Vancouver.

Bill took the title with a one-over-par score of 72-73—145. He won by two strokes, with clubmate Dale finishing third at 150.

ACES AT GORGE: Gorge Vale Golf Club has seen two holes-in-one recently. First was by Ed Deakin, who used a No. 7 iron at the "blind" 14th hole of 145 yards. He was playing with C. Wesson, J. Morrison and W. Schleivit.

The second hole-in-one was by Roy Langford, who aced the second hole of 182 yards with a No. 5 iron. He was playing with George Murphy.

Neither of these players had previously holed out in one.

Last night's score: New Westminster 8 at Vancouver 9.

Next game, tonight: Nanaimo at VICTORIA.

First place in the Inter-City Lacrosse League will again be at stake when Victoria Shamrocks take on Nanaimo Timbermen tonight at Memorial Arena in the first game of a home-and-home series this week.

The two clubs, currently tied for the lead with 24 points from 20 games, meet again in Nanaimo Saturday night.

PILS END STREAK

Last night at Vancouver, the battle for the third playoff berth got a bit closer as Vancouver Pilseners ended a seven-game losing streak with a 9-8 victory over New Westminster Salmonbellies.

It was the second successive defeat for Salmonbellies, who moved right up only to be stopped at Nanaimo Saturday night. Wins Saturday and last night would have left the Royal City club in a first-place tie with the Rocks. As it is, they are four points out of the lead and six points ahead of Pils with nine games left.

Pils, led by Gordie Gimple's four goals and backed up by the sterling goalkeeping of Dave Unwin, banged into a 7-3 half-time lead and were ahead by 9-5 after three-quarters as Stan Joseph made only eight stops on 17 shots.

Joseph stopped nine shots without a miss in the final 15 minutes but Salmonbellies could get only one of seven shots past Unwin, the league's leading goalkeeper percentagewise.

For tonight's game, the Shamrocks will have their first two lines intact and will use Tom Druce on defence. With Bert Bertoia again on the injured list and Bob Bremner also out with injuries suffered in his first game last week, coach Whitey Severson will attempt to take up the slack as utility player.

Optimist Club Moves To Babe Ruth Finals

Optimists advanced to the Babe Ruth baseball playoff final last night by trouncing Centennials, 12-4, at Beacon Hill Park to sweep the best-of-three game semi-final series.

Menzies have reached the semi-finals and Tillicums meet UCT tonight at Beacon Hill Park in the deciding game of their best-of-three series to decide the other semi-finalist.

Brotherhood of Painters grabbed a 2-0 lead in the Saanich Babe Ruth playoff final by downing Rapco Paint, 7-5. Cliff Kilduff led the winners at the plate with a two-run homer and a run-scoring triple.

Two other home runs were hit in minor baseball action last night. Pete Moody connecting for the distance to lead Merchants to an 11-7 victory over Totems in the James Bay Little League, and Verne Wakeman hitting a homer for Public Service in the Fairfield Little League.

Up-Island Resorts Salmon Hot Spots In King Fisherman

Two of the hottest salmon-fishing spots on Vancouver Island the past week have been at Bates Beach and Shelter Point, a few miles south of Campbell River.

Proof was received again yesterday as a flood of entries pushed the total entry for the Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest towards 3,000, a figure which should be reached by the end of the week.

Bates Beach, which normally gets a run of big spring salmon in early June, had it in the first part of July this year with fishing excellent for the past 10 days.

Rex Field of Courtenay, who makes the well-known Rex Field plug, was among those who struck it rich at Bates Beach. Using his own lure, of course, Field limited on Sunday with salmon weighing 20, 11¼, nine and five pounds. He had a 15½-pounder and a nine-pounder on Saturday and 20 and 21¾-pounders on Friday.

BIGGEST OF SEASON

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goodwin of Courtenay took three on Sunday—22, 14¾ and 14½ pounds. Harry Keillor of Vancouver took the biggest of the season on Friday, a 32½-pound Tyee.

The big story has been coho at the Gone Fishin' Boat Rental at Shelter Point, but there have been enough big springs to add a little extra to the fine fishing, the best part of which is that the silvers are hitting bucktail flies.

Visitors staying at the Gone Fishin' Boat Rental such as Mr. and Mrs. O. Suter of Chico, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. O. Richards of Grand Junction, Colo.; Roy Lathrop of Grant's Pass, Oregon; George and Jewell Christenson and Ben and Mabel Worley of Southgate, Calif., have seldom missed.

Aussie Real Baseball Fan

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Bruce Finegan has claimed the title of world champion baseball fan.

Finegan, 26, came all the way from Sydney, Australia, to see the all-star game. He played centre field, and sometimes shortstop or third base, for the Waverly Pirates, established in 1895 and the oldest baseball club in Australia.

Finegan quit his job as salesman in a department store, withdrew his savings and set out for the United States with the all-star game his objective.

Finegan, who weighs about 130 pounds, also wants to meet Ty Cobb.

"I've tried to model my play on him," he said.

Arrow Furniture ended its senior "A" men's softball league losing streak and strengthened its hold on third place last night by blasting Mayo Lumber of Duncan, 10-1, at Central Park.

Archie Sluggett stopped the pressing up-Island club on five hits as Arrows grabbed the decision on a pair of five-run innings. The Lumbermen had moved to within a half-game of third place with a weekend victory over Half Way House.

Norm Curran drove in two runs with a third-inning single and two more scored on an error. Tim Walker's two-run triple was the big blow in a five-run eighth frame.

In senior "B" men's action last night, Mary's Coffee Bar chalked up its sixth win of the season and pulled into fifth place by downing Tudor House, 12-9, at Heywood Avenue Park.

The winners scored seven of their runs in the final three innings and won the decision on the strength of four runs in the top of the ninth inning.

Vicettes scored their third victory of the season over Polyettes, a senior women's club, with a 1-0 triumph at Central Park. Nita Wood gave up only two hits for the winners, and catcher Barbara Peterson drove in Jackie Aplin with the only run in the third inning.

Ancient Archie Signs to Defend Title; California Commission May Stop Bout

Archie Moore may have satisfied the rest of the world Tuesday that he has signed for a bout to defend his light heavyweight title at Los Angeles Sept. 11, but so far as the California Athletic Commission is concerned no agreement exists.

Attorney Jules Covey, representing singer Frankie Sinatra, said he would go before the athletic commission at Sacramento today to lay before officials the proposal for a Moore-Tony Antony fight.

But the athletic commission said it had not licensed Sinatra to promote a fight and had no proposal for the bout before it. And under California state law no fight can be staged without the commission's approval.

Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission and president of the World Boxing Committee, said yesterday he had received a telephone call from Covey and that everything was in perfect order. Helfand added that in view of the positive action he would not strip Moore of his title.

Helfand's statement brought criticism from the California committee, which blasted the NBA for not keeping it advised on negotiations concerning the possible vacating of Moore's title unless he signed to defend it by yesterday's deadline.

TENNIS WAR: A professional just one day, Australia's Lew Hoad yesterday found himself in the middle of a tennis war of nerves that reached halfway around the world. Australian net officials have launched a move to ban Hoad and promoter Jack Kramer's entire tour from playing on any official courts down under because, they claim, Hoad broke his word by turning professional. . . . Hap Day, former general manager, coach and player with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, said Thursday he has informed the American Hockey League he will not accept the league presidency offered him. . . . Promoter Terry Brenner has offered Olympic heavyweight champion Peter Rademacher $10,000 for a Madison Square Garden fight next month with Alex Miteff, the Argentine flash. Rademacher, who has signed to meet Floyd Patterson at Seattle in August, probably won't accept. . . . Stan Williams, offensive and defensive halfback with Saskatchewan Roughriders, will be back with the WIFU club this season.

CANADIAN TITLE AT STAKE: A bulky field of 160 golfers, including most of the leading U.S. professionals, tee off today in search of the Canadian Open championship and $25,000 in prize money at Kitchener. Among the entrants are the last three champions—Doug Sanders, Arnold Palmer and Canadian Pat Fletcher . . . Mexico may send its international soccer team to Vancouver to play the B.C. All-Stars next June . . . Al Wilcher of Los Angeles battled to a 10-round draw with Canadian bantamweight champion Pat Supple Monday night at Tijuana. . . . R. P. "Reggie" Woodward, one of the pioneers of the British Columbia Rugby Union, died Monday at his West Vancouver home. He was 88 . . . Bob Dickie, a 175-pound quarterback from Montreal, has impressed officials of the B.C. Lions at their Kelowna training camp . . . South African Willie Toweel retained his British Empire lightweight title Tuesday night by outpointing Britain's Dave Charnley in 15 rounds at London.

Gallant West Indies Forces Cricket Draw

NOTTINGHAM, England (Reuters)—A gallant West Indies team tottering on the brink of defeat, fought back Tuesday to force England to a draw in their third cricket test match.

Great innings by Collie Smith who scored 168 runs enabled the West Indies to draw. The series now stands one win for England and two draws.

TASK TOO BIG

The West Indies were finally all out in their second innings with only one hour of play remaining. England needed 121 runs for victory but the most they could score was 64.

Smith, who batted seven hours and hit three sixes and 10 fours, gave a great display of fighting cricket to check England when it seemed they were heading for a comfortable win.

Smith and Denis Atkinson took their sixth wicket partnership which started Monday to 105 runs before Atkinson was out. But West Indies captain John Goddard put on a record seventh wicket stand of 154 with Smith before he was out for 61.

Although it looked as though England would score an easy win when play started Tuesday they were forced to a draw by four factors—dropped catches, the absence of spin bowler Tony Lock, a perfect pitch and the batting of Dennis Smith.

Cordova Bay In Title Bid

Undefeated in 22 games this season, Cordova Bay will be seeking its fourth consecutive provincial bantam boys' softball championship this weekend when it travels to Vancouver to meet the lower mainland representative.

The Colwood and District League club captured the Island crown last weekend by defeating Nanaimo, 16-2, 6-5, in a best-of-three final.

There is no finer advertisement for any firm than a staff of clean, neatly attired employees. Did you know that New Method Laundries are prepared to furnish your personnel with any one of a large variety of work clothes—and launder them crisply clean each week for a modest inclusive charge? Over 500 Victoria business firms are using this fine rental service every week. They have discovered for themselves that a clean, smartly attired staff is the finest sales booster in the world. Let New Method introduce you, also, to this great business builder. Phone 4-8166 and ask for Garment Supply Department. It's another New Method service.

4 "Easy-do" IDEAS

from Libby's

Mary Hale Martin

"Dad's Pantry Shelf Quickie"
Slice 1 can luncheon meat, and place over low heat in large buttered skillet. Shake on some tangy Libby's Catchup, then add 2 cans of Libby's Spaghetti. (Libby's is the kind with the cheddar cheese sauce. Practically everybody adores its special flavour.) Cover and heat gently till bubbly. If Mom makes this, she'll likely sprinkle on some chopped parsley. Nice touch!

"Never-Fail Glaze"
So easy, and so good, you'll want to use this glaze on roasted pork, on roasted whole bolognas (score, and treat just as you would a ready-cooked ham), as well as on hams—Blend 1 cup currant jelly till smooth, with 4 tablesps. Libby's Mustard (Libby's is guaranteed the best mustard you can buy. Sharp but never biting). Spread on deeply-scored meat (½ hour before it is done) and stud with cloves. Baste with glaze often.

"Speedy Pizza Snacks"
Open package of ready-to-bake Tea Biscuits. Flatten with palm of hand and place on baking sheet. Spread with Libby's Catchup (where flavor is so important, as in a recipe like this, be sure to use Libby's: it's made from more tomatoes for an extra-rich flavor). Sprinkle generously with grated cheese. Top with anchovies, mushrooms, or bits of salami. Lightly drizzle with salad oil, and bake in hot oven (for exact temperature and time, see Tea Biscuit package).

"Ritzy Corned Beef Spaghetti"
In a 10" shallow casserole or pie plate, lightly mix 1 can Corned Beef with 2 tsps. Libby's Mustard. Press mixture to sides of dish. Pour in 2 cans Libby's Spaghetti; then stir in ¼-½ cup sherry (optional). Bake at 425° till bubbly hot (about 20 minutes). Mmmm! Keep this recipe—your family will want a "repeat performance".

Important—We believe Libby's Canned Vegetables are the world's finest, and we invite you to try them. If you don't agree they're definitely superior, we shall happily refund DOUBLE your money.

LIBBY, McNEILL & LIBBY OF CANADA, LIMITED,
CHATHAM, ONTARIO

Glamorous way to entertain in comfort—easy-going soft silk shirt over sleek leopard print slacks.

Here's terrific flavor... truly mouthwatering and distinctively Libby's because Libby's and only Libby's makes deep-browned beans

High in proteins—shy in calories—Libby's deep-browned beans bring melting-good nourishment to the modern dinner table. Deep-Browning coaxes sauce into the very hearts of these tender beans—sauce with mouthwatering freshness that comes from our secret recipe that uses lots of delicious Libby's Tomato Juice.

These two advantages are exclusive to Libby's. They explain why our familiar Deep-Browned Beans have remained unmatched, still Canada's most popular baked beans by far. How long since you had a good feed of Libby's Deep-Browned Beans? You can get Deep-Browned Beans 2 ways: with Pork or Vegetarian Style. Made only by Libby's. How about tomorrow?

Elizabethan Look Predicted

Claire McCardell designed this outfit for the careless effective look in her fall fashion display. The two-piece dress has a fireman red raglan-sleeved top and slim black skirt in basket-weave wool. The over-blouse may be worn [illegible].—(AP Wirephoto.)

NEW YORK (UP) — Look for an Elizabethan era in American fashions for fall.

The visit of Britain's young monarch and her husband to the United States is three months away. But Seventh Avenue manufacturers already [illegible] "regal simplicity," from fabrics rich enough for royalty, and in colors appropriately named "Windsor rose," "Elizabethan blue" and "royal purple."

"The queen's visit will have a strong influence on the way Miss and Mrs. average American will want to look," said Roxane, who with Cecil Beaton designed the Samuel Winston fall and winter collection. The British-born Beaton, who last year gave us the "My Fair Lady" look, often has photographed members of the royal family.

QUEENLY FABRICS

Roxane's "fit for a queen" fabrics include silk satins in jewel tones, a $60 per yard lame, Ottoman silk brocades and wools with velvet-like texture. The designer also used the smooth, thick wool of British hunting coats for a group of daytime coats in "hunting pink," which actually is fire red.

Monte Sano and Pruzan pace-setters in coat and suit styles came up with the "great circle coat" cut full enough to envelop just about any costume in a woman's wardrobe. They also showed the three-quarter length and seven-eighths length coat, the latter done in large-pattern plaid tweed, in circular, barrel straight and bias cut.

The firm showed both short and long jacketed suits. One is the "great suit," with 26-inch jacket, double breasted and belted loosely. Another is the football suit made of heavy enough tweed to be worn without a coat.

WALKING ROOM

Suits belted at the natural waistline highlighted the Harry [illegible] is one of several manufacturers providing plenty of walking room in narrow suit and dress skirts, with deep box pleats, or slits. In the case of the hemline slit, there is a brief underskirt of the same fabric, so no slip shows.

Nettie Rosenstein featured all sorts of jackets in her suits, some of them hipbone length, others waist, some single-breasted, others double, some belted, others unbelted.

The designer, who made Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower's gown for the second inaugural ball, is famous for her "little black dress." This year she mixes it with other costumes in color, from American beauty and poppy red, to emerald green.

One of the most striking dresses in her collection, a vamp-type gown of clinging crepe with the decolletage slashed to the waist at back. It is named "Inky."

Jane Derby's evening clothes feature skirts cut with extravagant fullness, but bodices so sparse they just barely are modest.

POINTED HEELS

The shoe with the pointed toe [illegible] to stay and [illegible] designers are [illegible] through a heel inset that rises in steps to a re-enforcement that sweeps to a sharp, dramatic point. Their slender lines echo the grace and elegance of slim, tapered footwear.

Historic Log Church Setting for Wedding

The historic log church of St. Anne's, French Creek was the scene of a lovely summer wedding uniting two well known families when Shirley Ellen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willet [illegible] exchanged marriage vows with Melvin John La Plante, son of Mrs. Annie La Plante and the late Mr. La Plante of Alberni. White lilies and pink asters formed a background for the evening ceremony performed by the Rev. John Stainer, MA.

The delicate pink costumes of the bridal attendants made a fitting contrast for the traditional white worn by the charming fair-haired bride who entered the church on the arm of her father. Hand-clipped French lace and misty tulle over white slipper satin formed her ankle-length gown which was fashioned with a hooped skirt. The all-lace bodice had the new Sabrina neckline and lace panels formed a peplum effect at the back of the frock. The delicate pattern of the lace was embossed with mother-of-pearl sequins and seed pearls. Her chapel-length veil of three layers of tulle was outlined with sequins and seed pearls and held in place with a double coronet of sequins and pearls. The bride carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart rosebuds and stephanotis.

Wearing identical frocks of pink embroidered nylon net over taffeta were the bride's [illegible] Miss Joy Butler, the bride's cousin, and Miss Louise Massey. Their strapless waltz-length gowns were fashioned with bolero jackets and they wore headdresses of nylon net and mother-of-pearl sequins. They carried bouquets of pink gladioli, rosebuds and carnations.

Tiny Cathie Roberts was a dainty flower girl dressed in a [illegible] nylon net with a band of pink flowers in her hair and carrying a pink basket bouquet. Lennie Butler was ring bearer, dressed in a white suit with pink tie and belt.

Mr. James Woodske of Alberni was best man and ushers were Mr. Bud Shelly, brother of the bride, and Mr. Teddy Butler, the bride's cousin. The pink and white color scheme was carried out at the reception for some 200 guests which followed at the Community Hall where the bridal party received the guests in front of a flower-decked bower. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Mose Malone. Mr. J. L. Nicholls was master of ceremonies.

For going away the bride wore a [illegible] frock with matching jacket in a grey mixed weave with a blue and mauve thread running through it. Her cummerbund belt and hat were in a soft shade of mauve and she wore grey accessories and an orchid corsage. Following a motor trip to the United States the couple plan to reside in Alberni.

Young Readers Ask Advice On Secrets of Jam-Making

As you know, we usually keep our question and answer [illegible] till the end of the [illegible] there are several questions [illegible] that [illegible] are in the throes of making one kind of jam or another the following requested information may be helpful to many. Obviously the questions come from our younger readers so no laughs, please, from you who are well experienced in the art of preserving.

To save valuable space I'm going to omit initials this morning as there's a lot of ground to cover—so here goes.

"Obeying mother's instructions not to melt wax for covering jam over direct heat," says a bride, "I put mine in [illegible] of a double boiler but had a [illegible] of a time cleaning it afterwards." Oh no, my dear. Your mother was quite right, but put the wax in an empty tin can and just stand the can in boiling water, then throw it away afterwards.

STIR GENTLY

Why did my strawberries all come to the top of the jam jars? I am so disappointed." To prevent fruit from floating it is necessary to stir jam gently for about five minutes after removal from heat and after skimming it. "I notice the wax on the jam I made last week has not stuck to the glass. Does this matter?" Yes, it matters very much.

If you are going to keep it for any length of time I strongly advise you to take off the wax, re-melt it and start all over again. Here's how . . . Pour a thin layer of hot melted wax over the jam rotating the jar so that the wax will adhere to the glass. Leave until hardened, then add a second thin layer of melted wax, again rotating the jar. By so doing you can ensure a perfect seal. And by the way, when filling the jars leave at least ½-inch space at top to prevent "weeping" or oozing after wax has been added.

What is the best test for [illegible] the old-fashioned one.

[illegible] from heat and put about a teaspoonful of it on an old saucer. Chill it quickly and if it doesn't set to desired thickness cook a little longer and test again.

STERILIZE JARS

"Is it really necessary to sterilize jars?" Yes, my child, in my opinion the answer is definitely yes. I explained how last week but if you missed it drop me another note and I'll send you instructions.

"Is there a limit to how much jam you can make at one time?" Well yes; none of us home economists recommend making more [illegible] 1 lot of jam, if you follow me.

Oh dear! A reader takes an awful "crack" at me though a very jocular one.

Well after all, no one is infallible. Mrs. D. W. says she tried my stunt of putting a piece of string over the jam before pouring on the wax. And when she tried to pull the string to remove the wax, the string just slipped backwards and forwards and she hadn't time for such games! Frankly, that has never been my experience although I did say narrow tape was preferable. Anyhow, she conceived the idea of making the two ends of string into a reef knot over the jar and so got a grip on it, whereby the wax came off easily.

Well that takes care of those questions, for this morning at least. Now let's turn our thoughts to the making of raspberry jam. If you want to keep the fruit whole, I suggest you try a recipe of mine for whole strawberry jam which I ran recently.

All you have to do is to substitute raspberries for strawberries though for some reason it takes rather longer to cook. If you don't mind about keeping the fruit whole here's a completely different recipe . . .

RASPBERRY AND CURRANT JAM

Six cups crushed raspberries; 3 cups crushed red currants; 8 cups sugar. Measure the combine ingredients. Stir until well mixed. Allow to stand two hours, stirring frequently. Bring to boil and boil about 30 minutes or until the desired consistency. As said before, stir and skim to prevent fruit floating. Pour into hot sterilized jars. Allow to cool and cover with wax by the method just described.

TRICK OF THE DAY

Mrs. E. R. says . . . "If you sprinkle a very light layer of fine sugar over the meringue on top of a pie it will not stick to the knife when cutting."

TOMORROW YOU'LL WEAR

Stockings to match your shoes. One high-style shoe firm is putting out matching hose in besides the basic colors, such vivid tones as sapphire blue, American beauty, emerald, gold and flame.

A LOVELIER YOU

By Mary Sue Miller

SPIDER VEINS. A lovely writes: "Wearing swim suits causes me embarrassment as my legs are webbed with spidery, blue veins. Is there a way to hide them?"

For all with the problem, here's the answer. You can cover [illegible] and finishing powder. To achieve success with it, use two shades of cream, dark and light. Apply dark shade first: dot it on entire surface of leg and blend in with palms of hands from ankles upward. [illegible] light shade. Next press on finishing powder, [illegible] whisk off excess.

Presto! Your legs look as a bathing beauty's should. And you actually can take them swimming, for the make-up is waterproof. Just be sure to pat legs dry after dips.

[illegible] Keith Fraser Hall and [illegible] bride the former Dorothy Lucy Ken Fraser, [illegible] Stokes, who were married recently [illegible] at the Salvation Army Citadel in Victoria.

The Citadel Band played the wedding march at the ceremony which was performed by the brides father, Adjutant F. Stokes. The groom is the son of Brigadier H. Nyterod of Vancouver.

The bride wore the traditional Salvation Army uniform of navy blue serge with red trimmed collar and epaulets and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and ferns.

The groom's sister, Mrs. Ernest Stokes, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Herb Boatsman and Mrs. Stanley Ratcliffe. All were in uniform. Nieces of the bride, Marilyn and Jocelyn Hoome, were flower girls and wore [illegible]

Stephenson-Logan

In Brentwood United Church recently, Dr. A. McMahon heard marriage vows of Arlyne Georgina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Logan, Brentwood Bay, and Steve Clifford Stephenson, son of Mr. Les Stephenson of Vancouver and the late Mrs. Stephenson.

Mr. Logan gave the bride in marriage. Her wedding gown was of white satin and net with a bouquet of red and a matching lace veil. Her lace headpiece was edged with pearls and held her fingertip veil of net.

Mrs. Joanne Alberti was matron of honor and Miss Gail Logan and Miss Fay Dunsmuir were bridesmaids. Bridesmaids were all clothed in blue formals. Mrs. Albertini carried a bouquet of blue carnations with matching headpiece, while bridesmaids' bouquets [illegible]

Legion Holds Summer Dance At Salt Spring

GANGES—The annual summer dance sponsored by the Salt Spring Island branch of the Canadian Legion recently in the Manor Hall, Ganges, realized over $100 for the funds. It was under the management of Mr. B. C. Greenhough, chairman of the entertainment committee, and was attended by about 200 persons. Music was supplied by the popular "Islanders" Orchestra.

The decorations of the hall were carried out entirely with flags and colored lights. Refreshment arrangements were in the hands of the Legion LA and served under the convenership of Mrs. A. W. Rapson, assisted by Mrs. G. S. Humphries, Mrs. Zenon Kropinski and Miss Eley Price.

At the conclusion of the evening the prize winners of the contest conducted by Mrs. J. Bennett and Mrs. Ronald Lee in aid of the Community Hall and sports field at Fulford were announced by W. F. Dinburn, president of the Legion, as follows: 1, Mrs. Harvey Reynolds, $20; 2, Al Russell (Victoria), a ceramic casserole; 3, Mrs. Kermode (Vancouver), set of dishes; 4, Wilf Taylor, cigarette lighter; 5, Rex Dawkins, scrip; 6, Mrs. W. Y. Stewart, scrip; 7, Freda Nobbs, head square.

Garden Notes

Ma Fatsia and Pa Ivy

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In the annual kingdom we have the mule—the offspring of a donkey and a mare—and as everyone knows, mules are sterile and can't breed, thus bringing the breeding program to a dead end.

Development work has gone ahead steadily since that time, most of it under the direction of Mr. Balfour, plant breeder to Sutton & Sons Ltd. Some of these experiments ended up in blind alleys producing gorgeous plants which were, like the mule, completely sterile and incapable of setting seed.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

CBC will do a "live" show from the Saanich observatory at 10 p.m. today (on Pacific 13) as Bob Fortier asks the scientists what their job is, how they use the equipment and why they like the work.

[illegible] produced [illegible] Florida 13 this summer but next week [illegible] a play called "Tracy's Guest," about a Victoria boarding house and its inhabitants. Also today, CBC starts the Moonlight Bay show: channel 5 has a good fight and channel 5 shows A Queen is Crowned.

Speaking of new CBC shows, the musical show Summertime Express was scheduled to start tomorrow but will be delayed a week with a play substituted this time. Delay came when the Musicians' Union withdrew Summertime's Musicians at the last minute over a demand for more money. A demand later granted. It was the first time this had happened in CBC TV history.

CBS president Frank Stanton has at last defended the teenage idols on television against the criticism of President Eisenhower and others who felt it was bad for democracy.

Stanton said TV must report the news and only TV can show personalities as they make news. They be molded before our eyes, the people may be asked, trusted to know everything true and false and to form a correct value model between them.

Said Stanton: "How do we know this there is no hope for a free press. Indeed, there will be no use for it because there will be no free society for it to serve."

Despite the completely correct statement, there is a movement in the U.S. House to pass a resolution demanding that all interviews be cleared first with the State Department.

TV BITS: Can't exactly review the local Almanac shows because I didn't see them. But from the Hour the Tuesday one appeared the best because it was easiest and because the fazed opening of the Monday show fell through. The audience is to be thanked for its fine response throughout. . . . Hayseed Harold Craig who won $17,500 as Hack Bloomingdale left 21 with $98,500 Monday could become a tremendous draw. He's a [illegible] . . . Ed Sullivan is the new president of the Academy of TV Arts and Sciences, which gives the annual Emmy awards . . . As for ratings, Steve Allen still is ahead of Sullivan but Gunsmoke suddenly has shot to the top.

"Meeting is adjourned until next fight night."

BEST HOME OF THE YEAR AWARD
This home, with some minor changes, was built from the plans shown in a national magazine. It had been given the "Best Home of the Year" award. As a matter of fact it is the finest home we have seen in the $23,000 class—price of this home in another city. It has 3 bedrooms, a split entrance and vestibule, the living room has a very imposing fireplace with a suspended hearth, the family room or dining room is ideally located and much more functional than the usual seldom used dining area. The kitchen cabinets are done in rotor-cut mahogany with automatic washer and drier space—it too is built for the greatest efficiency. It has, of course, a through hall. The basement area, which has been studded up for rooms, can be finished off quite easily, and at a very low cost. The finished rooms, the fireplace is already installed. Automatic oil heat, mirrored fixtures and other appointments are installed as you would expect in a $23,000 home. It is located within a block of the Uplands Golf Course, within 3 minutes of the Yacht Club, and has a view of Cadboro Bay. N.H.A. gave it the maximum mortgage they are permitted—$13,000. The monthly payments with principal and interest are $83.30. But here is the big surprise—the price of the home is NOT $23,000, but—and you had better sit down—it's only $19,500
Call Mr. Allan Vizard for an appointment to see it now—5-2436, any time, but don't wait too long—there is only ONE HOUSE.

RETIRE

Rita Del Mar's Daily Astrology

WEDNESDAY, JULY 10

Today's quotation: "Look up, and not down; look forward, and not back; look out, and not in; and lend a hand." —Edward Everett Hale.

Wednesday for everyone: Care for routine, ordinary matters; give good service. Keep things on an even keel; skip upheavals, changes. However, enjoy some sociability, relaxation, see elders.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign Below.

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—Be conscientiously dutiful, attentive to necessities. Keep everything going smoothly, safely.

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Adopt a philosophical view ...

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Find ways to get things done. Conserve energy, money; be thrifty.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Look to those whom you admire, respect for a cue to action. Shun opposition, upsets.

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo)—This day favors attention to regular tasks; avoid upsetting the apple cart.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo)—Keep busy; advance skills; use care in motion, regarding speech, writings.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra)—Improve conditions, home base; don't lend, borrow. Steer clear of financial hazards.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—Make necessary contacts, attend studies. Maintain poise; reconsider before signing, agreeing.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—Seek solutions, increase assets. Keep free of nerves, extravagance, enmity.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn)—Stress ideals, personal interests. Avoid contention; maintain poise with friends.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius)—Solve problems; exert tact, calm regarding business and with those in authority.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Let friends, associates help you make careful decisions. Use care en route.

Planning ahead—Good for entertaining, sociability, etc.: July 16, 18, 23, 25, 26, 28, 29, 30, 31.

UPLANDS
Set well back from the road on a 118x180' lot, this particularly lovely 4-year-old home will surely meet the requirements of the most discriminating buyer. From the front of the attached double garage, wide steps lead to a very nice weather-protected entrance. A well-proportioned L-shaped through hall gives access to: a large living room, full-size dining room, a completely modern kitchen and utility, a lovely birch-panelled study, bathroom with built-in vanity, two twin-size bedrooms. There is a full cement basement with attractive maid's quarters and an excellent hot-water heating plant. The house is completely insulated and the doors are weather stripped. The very best of workmanship and planning are evident. The floors are ⅞" oak throughout. The house is most tastefully decorated and the whole property is immaculate. Quite frankly this home carries our highest recommendation in all respects. It can be inspected by appointment only. Price $28,500

Road Patrol Asked

Need for regular police patrol on new access roads to Prospect Lake will be studied by the Saanich police commission.

A letter from the Prospect Lake and District Community Association asked Saanich council for the police patrol and a survey of sanitary conditions. Council was also asked to purchase lakeshore property and build restroom facilities.

The Saanich sanitary inspector will probably make a water test to check on the sanitary conditions.

The council will advise the association it cannot buy property for restrooms because all money allocated for such purposes in the budget has been used.

Quick Sell-Out

Alberni Land Buyers Hustle for 42 Lots

ALBERNI — A land office business was done at City Hall Monday when 42 lots valued at $20,500 were sold. Thirty-three of the parcels of land were disposed of within 75 minutes after the office opened in the morning.

The property is in a new 66-lot sub-division at the city limits near Cherry Creek Road. Maps of the area were published in local papers and members of the council and City Hall staff were on hand Saturday and Sunday to show prospective buyers over the subdivision.

Ald. Fred Bishop reported at council meeting on success of the sale and City Clerk James Sawyer stated that the unprecedented volume of sales was handled without difficulty.

Most of the buyers paid one-third of the purchase price. It was noted that the higher priced lots were more popular. Prices ranged from $450 to $750.

Mayor Ben Wright said the rush to pick up property in the new subdivision showed confidence in the city.

Later in the meeting, council gave first reading to an amended zoning by-law which will establish some sections of the area in Zone 1, others in Zone 2. A public hearing has been arranged for July 22.

Another 66 lots will be placed on the market when streets and lanes are completed. Council approved building permits totalling $50,010, the accumulation since the last meeting two weeks ago.

Basic Salary Scale Passed

Saanich council last night adopted a report of the comptroller-treasurer laying out a basic salary schedule for officers and employees outside of the union contract.

The report was an alternative to an original schedule drawn up by Vancouver personnel consultants J. W. A. Fleury and Associates earlier this year which was supported by the reeve but turned down by council.

Council last night instructed the comptroller-treasurer to meet with department heads to determine in what position in the schedule each employee would be placed.

Alfred Bennett

He Carries on Fight While Boss Is Away

Alfred Bennett, chief spokesman for the B.C. Government Employees' Association, has been thrust into a place of prominence because his immediate boss is attending a labor conference in Algeria in North Africa.

Mr. Bennett is assistant general secretary of the association and has been leading the civil service fight against the provincial government.

Secretary of the association is E. P. O'Connor, at present in Tunis as an adviser to Canadian Labor Congress president Claude Jodoin. They are attending a conference of the International Federation of Free Trade Unions there.

Mr. O'Connor is scheduled to leave London, July 18, but has applied for emergency transportation in the light of the threatened strike of civil servants.

Mr. Bennett, who once was an active civil servant, is now a full-time, paid official of the association.

Survey Planned

Have You Studied Defence Pamphlet?

Greater Victoria citizens will be asked one main question soon by a group of house-to-house canvassers to be sent out by civil defence headquarters.

"Have you studied your civil defence pamphlet?"

According to Roger Peachey, Victoria CD co-ordinator, the check is to determine the state of citizen readiness in case of emergency and to help determine numbers needing transportataion from the city.

About 200 canvassers will tour the Greater Victoria area.

Calls will start soon as enough volunteers are available, Mr. Peachey said. Some calls have been made in the Hillside-Cook Street area.

The pamphlets were sent to householders last fall.

French Ratify Trade Treaty

PARIS (UP) — The French National Assembly yesterday overwhelmingly ratified the common market and Euratom treaties linking France economically with five other European countries.

The vote climaxed a week of debate by the deputies and reflected the French public's desire for a united Europe to compete with the world's two main powers, the United States and Russia.

70,000,000 Years Old

Dinosaur Bones Found in Alberta

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (BUP)—Bones of a duck-billed dinosaur which probably roamed the wide open spaces of Alberta 70,000,000 years ago have been unearthed in Chin Coulee, Alta.

The find was made by C. Parker and L. D. Nelson of Foremost, Alta., who also made the initial excavation.

Dinosaurs of the duck-billed and other varieties are believed to have been common in Western Canada a few ice ages ago, but the upper Cretaceous strata in the area is unfavorable to the preservation of phe-historic remains, and this was the first recorded instance of dinosaur bones being discovered in the vicinity of Foremost.

Dr. W. Langstron, Jr., of the National Museum in Ottawa, who is conducting a search for dinosaur remains in the Keho Lake district of southern Alberta, visited the site of the find in Chin Coulee.

He prepared key bones for return to the National Museum where they will receive further study.

Accountants Pass Exams

Seventeen Victorians passed spring examinations for certified general accountants at UBC.

Two graduates were L. P. Jones and Geoffrey Lines.

Others who passed undergraduate examinations were J. Butcher, D. E. Campbell and G. McClure, passed fourth year; P. J. Kelly, W. J. Robertson, Miss C. W. Smillie, N. S. Wallace and L. A. Wright, passed third year; A. R. Collins, T. A. House, D. H. Paterson and D. J. S. Young, passed second year; R. J. Matthews, Patrick J. Smith and I. Valen, passed first year.

Tourist Car Entries Up by Two Per Cent

Tourist traffic entering Victoria during the first six months of this year has shown a slight increase.

Figures given to the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau yesterday by Gerald Yardley, collector of customs, show car entries are up two per cent.

Customs officers at Victoria and Sidney handled 22,404 cars carrying 64,371 passengers from Jan. 1 to June 30 this year as compared to 22,005 cars and 62,979 passengers in the same period last year.

Publicity bureau commissioner George I. Warren said cars coming in have been from all United States except New Hampshire and Vermont and also came from Hawaii, Alaska, the United Kingdom and Mexico.

Although Sidney showed a considerable increase in traffic this year, there was a 700-car drop in traffic in and out of Victoria on the Port Angeles ferries.

Two Sailings Cancelled

VANCOUVER (CP)—Repair of minor propeller damage to the Canadian Pacific Steamships Princess Elaine and Princess of Nanaimo will cause cancellation of two return sailings between here and Nanaimo, the company said Tuesday.

Cancelled are the Princess of Nanaimo scheduled sailing from Vancouver at 9 p.m. PST Thursday, July 11, and the return sailing from Nanaimo at 5 a.m. PST and the Princess Elaine sailings July 18 from Vancouver at 5 a.m. PST and from Nanaimo at 8 a.m. PST.

Rock-Hunters Hold Picnic

SIDNEY—Some 36 members of the Sidney Rock Club hunted for agates, jasper, epidote and feldspar on a picnic outing to Agate Beach near Sooke, Sunday.

Talks on rocks and minerals were given to help members identify the rocks found.

RCMP Open Fatality File In Charlottes

QUEEN CHARLOTTE CITY, B.C. (CP)—The RCMP in the Queen Charlotte Islands have had to open a new file—"Traffic fatalities."

Officers of the detachment said Monday they had no fatalities on record until the week-end for the 73 miles of public highway on the islands, British Columbia's most westerly territory and home of about 3,000 persons, mostly fishermen and lumber workers.

The new file became necessary with the death late Friday of Maxwell Anderson, 16, whose car, one of 165 motor vehicles on the islands, overturned and caught fire at Sandspit, 10 miles east of here.

City Soldiers Back Home

Some 200 members of Victoria's reserve army have arrived home after undergoing an extensive 10-day field training at Camp Wainwright, Alta.

Among the militia flown to Patricia Bay from Vancouver, were Brig. John S. Adam and his headquarters 25 militia group, members of the Canadian Scottish, 5 medium battery, 25 medical company RCAMC, 156 company RCASC, and 40 technical squadron RCEME.

The militia took part in field exercises with units of the regular army.
